@hpatel: @mohammed.nauage Can we do something like this to get the JSON for our tests out of the actual spec files? http://stackoverflow.com/questions/17370427/loading-a-mock-json-file-within-karmaangularjs-test
Loading a mock JSON file within

Karma+AngularJS test

I have an AngularJS app set up with tests using Karma+Jasmine. I have a function I want to test that takes a large JSON object, converts it to a format that's more consumable by the rest of the app...

Here's some late-night reading for the team: http://git-scm.com/book/en/v2

phil 1:07 PM
cool. I confirmed it is happened in my local and on the integration server as well also, we need to make sure we are not exposing (too late?!?) our API key and other private configs. Here are some examples of ways to correct it: https://github.com/search?o=desc&q=%22api.fda.gov%22+api_key&s=indexed&type=Code&utf8=%E2%9C%93 apparently, the problem seems to be resolved.

Thanks
